Foreword

I am delighted that you have decided to apply for RICS Fellowship. It is a mark of distinction: when you achieve fellowship, you join a group of professionals who stand out in the eyes of their peers, of business and of the public.

The SCSI Fellowship represents a prestigious award that reflects the career achievements of a special group of property, land and construction professionals. Attaining SCSI Fellowship is a true mark of distinction.

SCSI members, who are major achievers in their careers, are invited become a fellow of SCSI. Applicants will be leaders in the profession; active SCSI members who have contributed to the profession.

This guide is designed to ensure that the process of applying for membership is a smooth as possible; it explains the minimum eligibility criteria, application process and process of approval.

Congratulations on your decision to apply for fellowship. The Society of Chartered Surveyors Ireland welcomes your Fellowship application.

Introduction

Definition

SCSI Fellowship is defined as:

‘An honoured class of membership awarded on the basis of individual achievement within the profession.’

From Membership to Fellowship

To gain your MRICS/MSCSI qualification, you demonstrated a range of professional and technical competencies. Experience and career progression provide opportunities for your skills to be enhanced and your profile and recognition in the industry to develop. These achievements emphasise the authority and professionalism required to demonstrate commitment to the promotion and development of SCSI and the wider profession.

Applicant profile

All members (MRICS/MSCSI) are eligible to apply for fellowship after a minimum of 10 years membership. You must provide evidence to demonstrate four characteristics.

If your online CPD record is not up-to-date or you have unresolved complaints or other conduct issues on your SCSI record, your application cannot be considered.
Process

Application

Download the application form or request it from education@scsi.ie. Details can be found at www.scsi.ie/membership/fellowship.

The application form details the application fees and the information you must provide.
1. Select four characteristics from the list.
2. Prepare evidence to demonstrate the characteristics.
3. Complete the application form and pay application fee.
4. Submit the application form and evidence electronically to education@scsi.ie.

As an SCSI member you are obliged to record your CPD. Following your application, you may be monitored in accordance with SCSI Regulation rules. You must maintain up-to-date records on your online CPD record.

The application form requires you to provide the following information:
- Membership number
- Personal statement on current role, practices and ambitions (maximum of 500 words)
- Employment history
- Academic qualifications
- Professional qualifications
- Written statements for each characteristic (maximum 500 words per characteristic)
- Referee – any MRICS/MSCSI or FRICS/FSCSI
- Confirmation of declaration

Your submission will include:
- Application form
- Third party evidence for each characteristic

Assessment

Your application will be considered by a panel assigned by SCSI.

If you have unresolved complaints or other conduct issues on your SCSI or RICS record, your application cannot be considered.
Result

The process from application to result can take up to two months. You will be informed of the timeframe when your application is acknowledged. There may be a delay if your application is incomplete or if SCSI needs to investigate any matters of concern; you will be informed if this is the case.

Your application will either be approved or declined. If it is approved, you will be awarded fellowship. Your name will be published on the SCSI and RICS website and you will be entitled to use the designation FRICS and FSCSI.

If it is declined, SCSI will send you a statement explaining the reasons. You have the right to appeal the decision. You cannot appeal simply because you disagree with the decision of the panel. For an appeal to be successful you must be able to show fault in the way the assessment was conducted, which led to an unfair decision. Examples would be administrative error or procedural unfairness. There is an appeal fee.
Characteristics

Principles

To gain FRICS/FSCSI status, you must demonstrate your individual achievements. We have identified a range of achievements and defined them as characteristics that distinguish you as a Fellow and recognise your contribution to the profession. As a Fellow, you must:

1. Demonstrate intent to further SCSI and the profession.
2. Act for the benefit of a third party to reflect SCSI’s public interest mandate.
3. Promote SCSI objectives and the profession.

These principles should guide you in deciding what characteristics you meet. We recommend you familiarise yourself with the ‘about us’ and ‘who we are and what we do’ sections of the SCSI and RICS websites respectively.

Relevance

Relevance is judged as any achievement representing the skills used by an SCSI member; these can include technical (surveying) skills, professional skills, managerial skills, dispute resolution skills and any other relevant skills.

Overview of categories and characteristics

The characteristics are grouped into four categories.

- CHAMPION – a Member who has gained recognition by an appropriate authority.
- EXPERT – a Member who has been verified as advancing, sharing or interpreting knowledge.
- INFLUENCER – a Member who influences how professionalism is perceived.
- ROLE MODEL – a Member who exceeds standards for the advantage of clients, colleagues or the wider public

Guide to columns below:

- Characteristic – select four from this column.
- Definition – recognised achievements that meet the corresponding characteristic. Your evidence for a characteristic must demonstrate at least one of the achievements.
- Requirement – an explanation of the achievement in the definition column.
- Written statement – the details you must provide to demonstrate the achievement.
- Third party evidence – the details you must provide to verify the achievement.

Your application

Approach to applying

Read through the characteristics and the additional guidance. Consider your career against each of the characteristics. If you are ready to apply for fellowship you should be able to match your achievements to four characteristics and identify suitable evidence.

Personal statement, employment history and qualifications

This section allows you to detail your career decisions and present a profile that identifies experience that positions you as an MScsi professional who meets and exceeds expectations, of SCSI, the profession, and clients. This can include commitment to:

• recognition by an appropriate authority.
• advancing, sharing or interpreting knowledge.
• influencing how professionalism is perceived.
• exceeding standards for the advantage of clients, colleagues or the wider public.

These details provide the platform from where the evidence presented for each characteristic may be assessed. The panel will use the details to support their decisions on each of your selected characteristics.

Selecting characteristics

You must select only four of the characteristics. Choose the ones that best illustrate your strengths and achievements. You must provide sufficient evidence to enable the panel to make a confident decision. You should be prepared to provide the necessary information and details to support your application and the achievements you are demonstrating. The panel will decide if the evidence you provide demonstrates the characteristic; the panel may not be familiar with your background or area of practice and you should consider this when preparing your evidence.

Preparing evidence

For each characteristic you choose, you must include:
• A written statement by you describing the achievement (maximum of 500 words for each characteristic).
• Third party evidence confirming the achievement.

Identify examples of activities or responsibilities you can provide for each of your four characteristics. You must use a different example for each characteristic.

Consider the fellowship principles for each example you have identified. Use the requirements column to frame your examples. By following the recommended details for each piece of evidence you are more likely to provide all the information the panel would need to approve the application.

You may be asked to provide supporting information if your evidence does not provide sufficient detail.
Writing statements

Address the requirements for each characteristic as stated in the characteristics table. Your statement should refer directly to what you have achieved and how this supports the characteristic, fellowship principles and category.

Write factual declarations, with sufficient detail and explanation, to demonstrate the characteristic. A brief statement or description or simple reference to current or previous job titles or employers is unlikely to contain sufficient information.

Evidence should clearly reference achievements, actions or responsibilities. Statements should be specific to you and avoid generalisations that could apply to other people.

Providing third party evidence

Address the requirements for each characteristic as stated in the characteristics table. The third party document must refer directly to what you have achieved.

Confirmation could be an email or letter from the stated third party or a report/article written by the third party that confirms your appointment/involvement. You can also reference content from a reputable website that confirms your achievement – please provide the webpage address and the content from the website.

Specific third parties are identified for each characteristic. Where stated, the third party may be your manager, a client, an SCSI member or an appropriate authority from the organisation that recognised your achievement. If possible, each third party should be different and should not be the same as your referee.

Copy documents for awards, certificates, diplomas, citations or publications should clearly demonstrate what has been achieved/awarded/published, including your details and the details of the awarding body/publication.

Any third party evidence provided is subject to further verification by SCSI staff. In order to do this, SCSI may contact your referee or the third party.

The assessment

The panel will use the following questions to support their decisions for each characteristic.

You can use this as a checklist when reviewing your evidence.
1. Does the achievement meet the stated definition and requirement of the characteristic?
2. Does the third party evidence validate the written statement?
3. Is the characteristic demonstrated by an example different to the other characteristics?
4. Is the achievement relevant to SCSI and the profession?
5. Does the achievement demonstrate an intent to further the profession and SCSI?
6. Does the achievement positively impact on a third party?
7. Does the achievement promote the objectives of SCSI?
8. Does the achievement reflect positively on SCSI?

For the characteristic to be satisfied, the answer to each question must be yes.
Dating back to 1895, the Society of Chartered Surveyors www.scsi.ie Ireland is the independent professional body for Chartered Surveyors working and practicing in Ireland.

Working in partnership with RICS, the pre-eminent Chartered professional body for the construction, land and property sectors around the world, the Society and RICS act in the public interest: setting and maintaining the highest standards of competence and integrity among the profession; and providing impartial, authoritative advice on key issues for business, society and governments worldwide.

Advancing standards in construction, land and property, the Chartered Surveyor professional qualification is the world’s leading qualification when it comes to professional standards. In a world where more and more people, governments, banks and commercial organisations demand greater certainty of professional standards and ethics, attaining the Chartered Surveyor qualification is the recognised mark of property professionalism.

Members of the profession are typically employed in the construction, land and property markets through private practice, in central and local government, in state agencies, in academic institutions, in business organisations and in non-governmental organisations.

Members’ services are diverse and can include offering strategic advice on the economics, valuation, law, technology, finance and management in all aspects of the construction, land and property industry.

All aspects of the profession, from education through to qualification and the continuing maintenance of the highest professional standards are regulated and overseen through the partnership of the Society of Chartered Surveyors Ireland and RICS, in the public interest.

This valuable partnership with RICS enables access to a worldwide network of research, experience and advice.
