

For those interested in pursuing further study in the field of Project Management, the Society draws your attention to the following selection of courses:

Trinity College

Post Graduate Diploma in Project Management

A 1-year part-time (Friday evenings/Saturday morning) diploma designed for those working in civil engineering and construction.

Please note this is not formally accredited by the Society or RICS for the purposes of the APC.

Click here for more information.

Smurfit Business School

Masters in Project Management

This Masters, offered on a part-time (2-year) and full time (1-year) basis, is aimed at graduates with a background in business, economics, engineering or computer science.

Please note this is not formally accredited by the Society or RICS for the purposes of the APC.

Click here for more information.

University of Limerick

Masters in Project and Programme Management

This 2-year part-time Masters is delivered entirely online.

Please note this is not formally accredited by the Society or RICS for the purposes of the APC.

Click here for more information.

University of Salford

MSc in Project Management in Construction

This Masters programme is available to undertake by distance learning over 2 and a half years.

Please note that this course is accredited by RICS (and recognised by SCSi) for the purposes of the APC.

Click here for more information.

Nottingham Trent University
MSc in Project Management (Construction)

This Masters programme is available to undertake by distance learning over 2 and a half years.

Please note that this course is formally accredited by RICS (and recognised by SCSi) for the purposes of the APC.

Click here for more information.